The seasonally adjusted monthly unemployment rate for city of Toronto residents increased by 1.0% from 7.3% in January 2015 to 8.3% in February 2015; however, the seasonally adjusted three month moving average fell from 8.1% in January 2015 to 7.9% in February 2015, because February was lower than the month it replaced in the three month average.

The seasonally adjusted monthly labour force participation rate for city residents aged 15+ increased from 63.6% in January 2015 to 64.1% in February 2015. The three month average also increased slightly in February 2015 (63.8%) compared to January 2015 (63.6%).
On a seasonally adjusted monthly basis, the number of employed city of Toronto residents declined by 63,800 in February 2015 compared to the previous month. The seasonally adjusted three month average decreased by 23,700 in February 2015.

On a seasonally adjusted monthly basis, the proportion of city residents aged 15+ that are employed (the employment rate) decreased slightly from 59.0% in January 2015 to 58.8% in February 2015. The three month average increased from 58.4% to 58.7% in February 2015.